

Abstract

Disclosed is a method for producing a polymeric hydroperoxide which forms a radical polymer but no low-molecular radical under redox influence. According to the inventive method, a synthetic polymer containing at least one tertiary hydroxyl group or olefin function is reacted with concentrated hydrogen peroxide and a concentrated mineral acid.